

Weekly Report

Colombia

Adam Menzies

MARCH 14–21,
2014

- 1 Indigenous Groups in south-western Colombia Fear Displacement Amid Violence
- 2 Amnesty International Reports Targeted Killing of Indigenous Activists

Indigenous Groups in south-western Colombia Fear Displacement amid Violence

- Indigenous groups in south-western Colombia face a continuing threat of displacement as a result of ongoing civil conflict.
- Indigenous groups are often forced to flee across the border to Ecuador.
- Source: UNHCR

<http://www.unhcr.org/520b85db9.html>

---

“Their history is one of displacement – and resilience as they maintain their own identity.”

---

Amnesty International Reports Targeted Killing of Indigenous Activists

- Indigenous groups in Colombia are especially vulnerable to resurgences of violence.
- Large-scale displacement of civilians creates instability.
- Indigenous rights activists are often targeted; many have been executed by armed groups.
- Source: Amnesty International

<http://www.amnesty.org/en/library/asset/AMR23/008/2014/en/9cc8391b-1316-4b2f-8df2-ae5106532c0c/amr230082014en.pdf>